

An extension to Bert's Garage (Bert van Rhijn)

Bert of Bert's Garage (John Ahern) has bought a new tow truck, which he dearly wanted to have under cover. So what to do? There were still left-over parts of the Wills Station garage, but they were slightly too low for the crane's jib. The solution, of course, was to put it on a brick foundation. And now the new acquisition can be safely locked away for the night.

Cwm Eglwys loco shed

The cardboard mock-up had been looking me in the eye for some time, so in the end I made a final drawing. The walls came from an old advertising sheet 3mm thick and were covered with 0.6 mm Slater's sheet, making them 4.2mm thick. Two chimneys rest on a beam structure in the roof and the doors turn on handrail knobs. Now I need to build a viaduct and make a start on the track...
